Petition Passers To Attempt Finish Line Dash Maybe

Mark Raggett reported yesterday morning that parking district petition passers have 50 percent of the signatures needed but they hope to have "much better than that" by Tuesday night, 7:30 o'clock, when they meet at city hall with the city council, hotelmen, Business Association and Real Estate Board representatives to give an account of their activities at the what-to-do-about-street-cleaning-and-parking meeting.

The parking district committee was included in the omnibus meeting when the date was set at last council meeting and somebody wanted to know how far along the parking petitions have progressed. Councilwoman Geraldine Smith noted with displeasure that "nobody is here to report" and that there should have been. She added that Corum Jackson, unofficially, had asked to be relieved of the chairmanship, and she thought unless considerable progress could be reported at the October 26 meeting, it might be necessary to have an enlarged committee. "Enos Fouratt has worked hard," she conceded. "He's the workhorse of the committee," Raggett commented yesterday. In addition to Fouratt and Raggett, petition passers are Harold Nielsen and Jimmy Doud.

Original purpose of the meeting, and its most important aspect, is to work out some sort of compromise on the proposed ordinance that would prohibit after-midnight parking in the business district. Scheduled as a conference between hotelmen and council, it has been expanded to include representatives of the business association, real estate board, and the parking committee.

COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE

By the middle of this week, the local Community Chest campaign had netted $7,958, representing nearly a fourth of Carmel's quota of $33,000.

It was expected that the total would be substantially greater by today.

British Consul To Speak Here On Communist China

Britain and Red China will be the subject of an address at the public meeting of the World Affairs Council of Monterey Peninsula Monday night. The speaker, Sir Robert Hadow, British Consul-General for Northern California and Nevada.

Sir Robert joined the British diplomatic service in 1919, after serving through World War I in the Seaforth Highlanders. He has served in Iran, Turkey, Canada,

Charles De Vault is 80 years old today. Each member of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. De Vault is an elder, has sent him a personal card of congratulation, as have the many friends he and Mrs. De Vault have made during their eight years in Carmel.

Mr. De Vault's "official" retirement came in 1929, when he left the diplomatic service after having served under five presidents as American consul, and diplomatic officer in such capitols as London, Paris, Mexico City and Tokyo. For 21 years before entering his diplomatic career, he practiced international law in his home town of Columbia City, Indiana, and served also in his state legislature; he has been a member of the Supreme Court Bar since 1903. From 1929 to 1932, he was a foreign news analyst and broadcaster in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

The De Vaults moved to Carmel in 1945, and six years later Mr. De Vault again voluntarily came out of retirement — this time to serve Carmel as traffic clerk of the city court, and later as local traffic clerk of the Monterey-Carmel Municipal Court. Since his resignation from this post last May, Mr. De Vault has continued active interest in civic affairs, and has tirelessly worked on behalf of the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

In observance of the birthday occasion, the De Vaults plan to hold an informal open-house for friends today at their home on Casanova and Eighth.

Planning Board Says No To Closing Cross Walks On Ocean Ave.

Carmel planning commission, meeting Wednesday, voted unanimously to recommend to the council that the cross walks between the planting islands on Ocean Avenue not be closed.

They set November 17 as the date for a public hearing on the Carmel Red Cross' request for a use permit to build offices and work room on the south east corner of Dolores Street at Eighth, a lot in the residential area. On the same date there will be a public hearing on the New Presbyterian Church's request for a variance to allow them to build a church steeple 20 feet higher than the maximum building height allowed in the ordinance code.

Plans were approved for remodeling and increasing the Pine Inn property; for remodeling the Percy Parks building on Dolores Street to make it suitable for Gene and Parvin's Restaurant; for converting a doctor's office to a beauty shop in the Patterson Building.

Put over for discussion at the study meeting were the council's request for an opinion of Francis Whitaker's plan for planting Ocean Avenue and his suggestion of a liaison committee.

ARTISTS' BALL NOVEMBER 20

After a lapse of a year, the Carmel Art Association will revive its gala Artists' Ball on November 20, with the Exhibition Hall at the Fairgrounds to be the scene.

Theme of this year's ball will be "Circus", with costumes and entertainment to be planned accordingly.

Harold Landaker is general chairman of the ball, and will meet with committee heads tonight at the Gallery to discuss plans for the event. Chairmen are Linford Donovan, decorations; Col. Norman McMahon, refreshments; Charles Thomas, entertainment; and Laura Maxwell, finances.

16 Local People On Pro-Con Panel For Measures Meeting

Sixteen local people, respected for their ability and willingness to work their brains, will analyze the 20 measures coming up on the November ballot at the League of Women Voters, traditional measures meeting Thursday evening, 8:00 o'clock, at the Monterey USO.

This meeting is held before each general election as a public service to give the voters a non-partisan explanation of the measures, and a summary of the arguments for and against each. There is no admission charge.

"The Thing" In The Mail Today

The council, when they sweated over it last week, named it: City Of Carmel-By-The-Sea, State Employees' retirement System, City Council's Statement Of Facts For Submission To Qualified Voters In The Special Election Consolidated With The General Election On November 2, 1954 Called By The City Council At The Request Of The City Employees. Then they rushed off to Los Angeles to recover from their literary efforts and attend the League of California Cities conference, taking with them the city clerk, the chief of police, the street superintendent and the city attorney.

The skeleton crew — Francis Whitaker, Floyd Adams, Chris Neddersen and the Pine Cone Press mechanical staff — left behind to get it printed and in the mail called it The Thing.

You'll receive it sometime over the week end if you get around to the post office and are a registered voter. It says about what the Pine Cone told you about the state pension plan two weeks ago, but in more detail and in official language, including a "hereinafter."

"It works!" says Mayor Horace Lyon as he and Lloyd Weer, local manager of the P.G. & E., examine a replica of the original incandescent light bulb first perfected by Thomas Alva Edison just 75 years ago this week. In recognition of the anniversary of the begining of the electrical age, Mayor Lyon has proclaimed October 18 to October 30 as Edison Light's Diamond Jubilee.

PADRE VARSITY JOLTS HOLLISTER, 20 TO 0; JVs LOSE

Striking with incredible swiftness in the first quarter, the Carmel High football team zipped to a pair of touchdowns and completely outplayed the big Hollister eleven to rack up a coveted league victory last Friday night at the Haybaler stadium. Rated as outclassed underdogs by everyone but themselves, the Carmel gridders turned in an aggressive, crisp-blocking, hard-tackling game which bottled up the swift Hollister attack and served to spring the Carmel speed backs for thrilling long-gainers.

Carmel's first touchdown came with electrifying suddeness early in the first quarter when Clyde Klaumann, Padre sophomore fullback, took a handoff from Mike Mosolf and scampered 70-yards for the six-pointer. Solid blocks by Dave Castagna, George Wightman, and Greg Danelz paved the way for Big Clyde's gallop. Paul Fratessa, buoyed up by all his practice against Coast the previous Saturday, toed accurately for the extra point and the local preps had seven points on the board.

Vicious tackling by the Carmel defensive unit took the starch out of the Haybaler offensive thrusts and the next time the Padres got the ball they sent West Whittaker on a 60-yard jaunt into touchdown land. Nice blocks by Don Rowe, Dick Jennings, and Bob Michela cleared a smooth running lane for the tricky Padre halfback. Fratessa's conversion attempt was blocked but Carmel had 13 big points on the board and it's still the first quarter.

Carmel's valiant defensive crew of Captain Jon Chase, Gene Gawain, Merle Pitman, Jon Menand, Dick Jennings, Pat Erwin, Dick Ogden, Ted Ledbetter, Don Rowe, Bill Powell, and Bill McCormack staved off several Hollister threats in the second and third periods and set the stage for Carmel's third tally in the final period. Some beautiful faking by Clyde Klaumann on a quarterback sweep play sprung Mike Mosolf around the Hollister right flank and the skinny Padre signal-caller threaded his way for a 30-yard touchdown gallop. Fratessa's conversion was straight and true to put the Carmel lads in front, 20 to 0. Fine downfield blocks by John Thompson and Millard Martin were instrumental in putting the final six-pointer on the board. These two lads cleared out the left side of the Hollister secondary and made the touchdown road easy.

Hollister's junior-varsity crew packed too much heft, speed, and power for the little Padres and thumped the local JVs, 19 to 0, in the preliminary tussle. A 50-yard punt runback, a 40-yard scoring drive, and a 35-yard burst around end provided the Hayseed scoring tools. The Little Padres fought back all the way, working their way deep into Hollister on several occasions but lacked the scoring punch when near the last stripe. Dick Holt and John Zellhoefer were the top offensive threats for the Carmel Babes, breaking away for several good gains against the stacked Hayseed defense. Craven Ross and Ron Huffman were defensive standouts against the hard-hitting Hayseed power attack.

CARMEL FOOTBALL SQUADS AT GILROY TONIGHT

Carmel High's varsity football team will be after their second league win tonight as they trek to Gilroy for a joust with the high-flying Mustangs of Gilroy High. Full of fire, fight, and confidence after their 20-0 skunking of Hollister last Friday night, the Padres are anxious to try their new look against the favored Gilroy football machine. The Mustangs enjoyed themselves at King City last week, trouncing the KC varsity, 45 to 26, in a scoring jubilee which was close at 26-20 in the first half and broke wide open in the last quartre as Gilroy exploded for three touchdowns.

Gilroy has one of the best-balanced teams in the B division, havinf a veteran backfield which rates on a par with the Pacific Grove powerhouse and being solid up front with a pair of 190-pound tackles, two rangy ends, and a center who tips the beams at an even two-hundred. In quarterback Leonti, the Mustangs have a fine split-T operator who can fake, pass, and run with the best of them.

A Swim is not a Bath

Youngsters invariably feel that as long as they are wet, they're clean. They constantly have to be reminded that a swim is not a bath. Only a real soapy scrubbing will remove the mud, sand, and other debris children will collect from a swim — whether in a lake, the surf, or the backyard pool.

To provide the facilities needed to turn a swim into a bath in a tub or shower at home requires a lot of doing — exacting engineering, chemical, and practical knowledge; a large investment in plant; and an adequate return on this investment to attract the capital necessary to keep on improving and expanding the system.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

Tree planting time is upon us. Rabindranath Tagore's famous saying that "a tree is a prayer" has always intrigued me. All sorts of poems have been written about trees for they are lordly things, yet we go right on passing groves of beauty with never a glance.

Take a look into your neighbor's garden. The entire pattern of the landscaping is determined by tree selection, where they are placed and the nature of the tree. One garden will need shade. The next garden must avoid shade. Trees grow for every emergency and use and the only requirement is familiarity with varieties. If you wish a stately growth that casts no shade, yet gives character to a garden you can choose a tree of the myrtle family. I have one of these at the entrance of my patio. The name is a jaw breaker, Metrosideros. I just call the fellow Metro, for short, and some of my friends call the tree M.G.M. It rises on a single stalk, throwing out symetrical branches near the crown of the bole. In Spring, the limb-tips are showered with panicles of white flowers that remain on the tree for a long time. This Metrosideros casts no shade, and sheds no litter. It is one of the cleanest trees I have ever known, and it is not deciduous.

For shade, nothing can beat the Modesto Ash. This tree has rapid growth and dense bright glossy foliage. Although slightly deciduous in this locality, it brings forth abundant foliage in the Spring, with no bothersome seed pods littering the ground. The Modesto Ash grows equally well on the coastal region as in the interior of California.

I am "that way" about the common willow. Long draperies, as tighly curled as though they had had a permanent, sweep to the ground, and the slightest breeze gives the tree a dancing appearance. The curley willow grows to lordly height and should be planted away from the garden requiring sunshine.

All varieties of birch trees are desirable. In the winter months the birch throws against the sky a symmetrical scaffold of bare branches, and when Spring comes, you will know it as the tender green leaves begin to unfold.

There are the flowering fruit trees and all sorts of superb growth and all one needs to do before selecting any tree is to study one's property for landscaping design, and plant the tree that adds to the design and does not detract.

Audubon Screen Tour Hits High Spots In Nation's Scenery

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society presents the first Screen Tour of the season, Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium.

William H. Wagoner, Jr., of New Jersey was raised in the "pine barrens" and at the age of 12 took up photography, as a medium to record nature's activity around him. He was so successful that in a few years his nature photographs were appearing in magazines, exhibits and at Museum of Modern Art in New York. During the war he was photographer for Army Signal Corps. He was Ranger-Naturalist at Grand Canyon National Park and in addition to his ranger duties he took pictures for the Park Service.

His Wanderland shows a pleasurable mixture of joy of living with deep love of nature. In it he covers the country from the pine barrens of New Jersey to the coral reefs of Florida and bird life in the Everglades, the South-West desert country, life in the high Sierra and the Rockies, climaxing the whole by wonderful shots of Grand Canyon and Rainbow Bridge.

A dinner honoring Mr. and Mrs. Wagoner will be held at the Pine Inn, Carmel, at 6:00 preceding the lecture. Phone your reservation to Mrs. Terhune 7-6028 before noon Tuesday.

To Patrons of The Del Monte Properties Company

The Company finds it advisable to increase charges at the gates to the Forest by 25 cents an automobile, from 50 cents to 75 cents.

This increase need not affect those who live on the Monterey Peninsula as monthly permits are still available at the old rate of $2.50, and annual permits at $25.00 a year, the same as is paid by property owners in the Del Monte Forest.

These permits may be secured at the Engineering office of the Del Monte Properties Company at Pebble Beach.

The increase will become effective November 1st. —Adv.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

In Drew Pearson's Washington Merry-Go-Round column about three weeks ago appeared a most amazing story. It emphasized two points of great importance to conservationists. First, it spot-lighted Secretary of the Interior McKay's give-away tendencies. Second, it emphasized the inadequacy of the present outmoded mining laws, which have never been revised since 1872.

In Collier's Magazine for April 11 last appeared an article describing some of the sad results of the present mining laws. Under these laws anyone can file a mining claim for 20 acres of Government land, if there is any evidence of minerals, including sand, gravel or building stone. If he does $500 worth of maintenance work on it, he can acquire title to it, unless the Government can prove that it is not a legitimate mining claim.

Under this law the MacDonald family of Mobile, Alabama, laid claim to 454 acres of heavily timbered land in the Rogue River National Forest of Oregon. They had tried to patent their claims, which would have given them the right to cut the valuable timber on them, but up to a short time ago the Department of the Interior had been able to prevent that, on the ground that there was no ore worth mining on most of it.

Recently Secretary McKay reopened the case at the urging of Congressman Ellsworth of Oregon, in whose district the disputed claims lie. The amazing thing about it is that the samples of ore were sent back to the MacDonald family's home town of Mobile, Alabama, to be assayed, instead of to the nearest Oregon office as would naturally be the case. On the basis of the report from this office in Alabama the Secretary granted title to this very valuable tract of land.

I happen to know that the facts reported in this case are true. The Hope mining bill, which still languishes in committee, would probably cure situations of this kind, though no bill will ever permanently cure the devious ways of grasping human nature. When will the voters wake up to the seriousness of this matter?

Over a year ago Senator Barrett of Wyoming (Republican) was reported as saying on the floor of the Senate, when taunted with wanting to put the national forests and parks into private ownership, that he didn't want the national parks but he did want the national forests. It seems that a good beginning is being made in that direction.

Maude Arndt

Mrs. Maude Arndt, a Carmel resident for the past 40 years, died October 14 in a local rest home, where she had been in failing health for some time. She was 94 years old.

She was born April 11, 1860, and lived for many years in San Jose prior to coming to Carmel. Since her move here around 1914, Mrs. Arndt built and rented the Cabin Inn cottages on Ocean Avenue and Camino Real. She was also active as an artist and art teacher.

She is survived by a niece, Mrs. Carma Fleming of Berkeley.

Services were held last Friday, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating.

Autumn Crocus Review

By Virginia Shaw

The Golden Bough Players, this time under the direction of Don Gunderson, have served up another treat for local theatergoers in Autumn Crocus, a bittersweet comedy by C. L. Anthony, which opened last Friday for a four-weekend run in the highly successful arena theatre.

Inspired staging and art direction rank high among the merits of the new production. To set the scene of an inn in the Austrian Tyrol, the entire oval ampitheatre from the walls in has been drawn into the set, putting the audience into the collective position of an interested guest observing the action of his fellow boarders from a cosy corner in the inn's general room. The ice-cream colors and flower-decorated freshness of the stage furnishings, plus the artfully placed bric-a-brac on the walls, create just the right atmosphere of sweetness and light.

Autumn Crocus (which returned to the public eye largely due to the presence of Miss Margaret Truman in its stellar role) is at best a thin slice of life, well buttered with romance; its nourishment as entertainment derives largely from an engaging roster of "types", some adroit comedy relief and stage business, and over all, a sort of easygoing charm and an air of not trying to take things too seriously. All contribute to a pleasant, if not necessarily memorable experience. The weakest points of the current production—a slow beginning and a weak, if inevitable ending which leaves most of the audience expecting some sort of a coda—are probably inherent in the play, but might be strengthened by slightly brisker pacing.

The play's romantic leads are beautifully cast, and a visual as well as dramatic compliment to each other. Flavia Flavin's special magic, here addressed to the role of a little schoolmistress whose love affair with the innkeeper transforms her momentarily from a shy brown bird into a radiant young girl, manages to make even the most banal lines and situations something breathless and touching. Wolf Griessbach, as the affable and handsome innkeeper, is the perfect foil to her other-worldliness with his robust and yet tender interpretation, making his role a warmly real and sympathetic one.

Surrounding these star-crossed lovers is a frieze of subsidiary characters, which are brought into full round by an excellent supporting cast. Katie Ruster is wonderfully funny as the dowdy, busybody English spinster with the rather baffled, brightly witless air of one who is never quite certain of what everyone is up to. Equally fine are Wayne Schlepp as an amiable, worried milquetoast of a reverend (watch him during the "concert" in the first act!), Gertrude Chappell as the formidable and fastidious travelling companion of the winsome heroine, and Karen Williams and Bill Quiett as a breezy pair of free-lovers—she a sardonically jolly young thing, he a brisk Birtish sort whose determined undergraduate zeal for the "experiment" is only slightly less ridiculous than his phenominally baggy lederhosen.

Allen Praefke, as a good-humored, beer-guzzling Alpinist who carries more in his rucksack than in his head, is a perfect caricature of the blond Aryan type. Praefke also brings a remarkable fine, resonant baritone voice to the musical interlude which fits loosely into the play's first act, singing two lovely German songs. (An English folk song, sweetly voiced by Miss Flavin, is also inclued in the concert; however, the harp which stands prominently against the wall is never played, perhaps to the relief of the audience.) Completing the cast are Marjorie Wurzmann and Renee Wurzmann, who carry their natural mother-daughter roles onto the stage with much grace and charm; Mrs. Wurzmann also provides the piano accompaniment to the musicale.

The entire cast deserves special mention for

PRAISE

How this purple ocean rushes
Through her royal lips' report,
Lifting all the shiply wishes
From my tangled weeds of heart!

On, you tide of upward rolling
Words that cap a sea of praise,
Flood the earth with power, compelling
Trust to rise and sail at ease.

—Othelia Lilly.

90 IN THE SHADE

The garden wilts and fades—
The grass turns slowly brown—
The heat invades the shadow.

Rose-petals drifting down
Pile white among the weeds
That drown the drying meadow.

The ripe genista seeds
With sudden snap of sound
Are freed and scattered wide.

The heat has baked the ground
To dust and greenless gravel.
There is no moist delight . . .

The tendrilled vines unravel
And hang in rags and strings
Dishevelled and inert.

The birds with drooping wings
Seek out the sultry shade
The heavy silence clings
And every leaf is still.

—John Stone.

EMPIRES FOR THE TAKING

White is the precious paper;
Black is the inking key
That spells the words the heart would write
To a printed eternity.

Fleet is the musing moment
That stikes the keys to a word,
Cold as the fall of winter
Or fleet as the flight of bird.

Warm as the sun in April,
Words deft as a knitter's hand,
Beneath the key of the moment
Lies your chosen land.

—Mary Gustafson.

SOUVENIRS D'UN MERVEILLEUX ACCUEIL EN RIVIERA CALIFORNIENNE

Cher Groupe Folklorique. Promu au rang d'Ambassadeur: tu vas a travers cette belle Califonie, semant dans ton sillage; l'air frais de ta jeunesse et le dynamisone de ton entrain. Dans les echos de nos chants du terrain, l'allegresse de tes danses et l'amour de tes costumes tu ravives l'esprit de notre France et rapproche les souvenirs; dances reminiscences en nos coeurs.

Aujourd'hui au plaisir d'accueillir de nouveaux visages, tu reveilles en moi un paysage qui m'est cher; celu de ma douce Cote d'Azur.

Douce, la similitude est exacte et je t'attribue, Riviera Califorinne ce meme qualificatif en ce jour ou aucun demon celeste ne drapa ce soile arachneen, laissant percer une ombre grise frappant l'Ocean de ce teint glauque, humide et sans joie. Eole formulant une treve retenaint son souffle glace. L'insipide brouillard enfin vaincu, le ciel, dans une melodieuse euphorie avait revetu son manteau de fete afin de refleter l'Azur de son coloris dans l'immense miroir du Pacifique. Premices avant coureur d'une debauche de joie et de sympathie, la Riviera Californienne l'accueil ensoleille de son vivant paysage.

Pacific Grove avait etabli une ligue de demarcation nous plongeant dans l'ambiance de notre Cote d'Azur. Calengues au sable d'or fin. Villas aux tons de pastel, deroulant un manteau de pelouse ou la parure des fleurs, jette l'eclat de leur tendre chatoiement. Merveilleux jardins exotiques; miniatures frappees aux effigies d'Eze ou de Beaulieu. Sans transition, abordons le fameaux circuit Seventeen Mile Drive, ou impeccable tel un garde du Prince Grimaldi, un Ranger avec son feutre a large bords, nous donnera complaisamment de precieuses indications dont nous mettrons immediatement notre curiosite a profit. Devant nous, en effet des collines de sable silliceux serviront a la fabrication du verre et comme toile de fond, les pins maritimes et les dunes houleuses, evoquent avec joie un tableau d'Arcachon. En arrivant a Point Joe, ou deux courants marins se rencontrent, nous saisirons a l'oree d'une for et, le spectacle attendrissant, d'une biche aux yeux d'emeraude conduisant altierement sa svelte progeniture. Conjointement emerge de l'Ocean Birds Rock, lieu de predilection d'une variete d'oiseaux de mer et de phoques dont le rauque aboiement alterne avec les cris seditieux des mouettes. Fan Shell Beach; havre d'esperance pour les collectionneurs de coquillages; presente un choix de nacre etincelante, ou les moules enormes aux reflets bleutes, voisinent avec les palourdes aux robes cotelees.

Recueillons nous silencieusement devant Cypress Point ou dedicace pieuse de la Nature, un cypress fusele monte une garde sainte, au lieu meme ou vint s'echouer en l'an 1924 le navire S.S. FLAVEL pris sous le dechainement d'un Ocean pourtant pacifique.

Lone Cypress Midway Point. Malgre l'imbroglio de ton titre, tu resteras indelebile dans mon souvenir. A l'extremite de ton rocher pourtant austere, j'ai decouvert une vue, que seul Pierre Rocher dans son language fleuri, aurait pu decrire en chantant un hymne a la gloire d'Antheor, ou en faisant revivre tel un mirage dans l'azur des matins le Cap d'Antibes baignant dans une lumiere d'Ete.

Si ces noms qui me sont chers ne furent que fiction, Lone Cypress Midway Point, plus qu'un symbole, tu realisas le don d'ubiquite. Delaissons la baie de Carmel, dans sa perspective eloignee pour entreprendre sa visite detaillee a l'interieur meme de ses terres. Tout en gardant jalousement le voisinage du bord de mer, la route par moment vagabonde dans l'atmosphere parfume des capiteuses forets de mimosas, musarde le long des massifs de rhododendrons, aussi colories qu'un plumage d'ara; puis timidement tente une incursion dans Del Monte Lodge, air s'harmonisent expert command of both English and German accents; while in some cases this came naturally, in others it doubtless required much coaching and practice, and the result is altogther convincing. Botched dialect has ruined many better plays.

Don Gunderson, who has already established himself in local theatre circles as both actor and director, may claim a success at his first directing venture in circle theatre here. Gary Smith is responsible for the wonderful art direction, mentioned earlier; not the least of her achievements is a convincingly real Alpine landscape which forms the view from the "window" of the stage set. Additional laurels go to stage manager Ed Bryant and lighting supervisor Tom Segnitz, and to prop girl Eleanor Mott. The costuming, too, is nicely done and altogether appropriate. The only inconsistency in the production would appear to be the entr' acte and background music; while lovely in itself, classic quartet music and the like seems out of place in a play which fairly cries for rollicking laendler, folk songs or even a few lusty yodels.

Un Merveilleux Accueil

dans une floraison de verdure et de couleurs debordantes, les fastueuses residences aux delicieux patios si traditionnels en Californie. Laissons nous seduire par le minuscule colibri, venant boire la rosee dans le calice des roses avant de disparaitre furtif dans son royaume aerien.

Mais le temps fuit sur les ailes du vent et avec Carmel se termine le reve. Chaste ville qui a voulu dans le respect d'une nature exuberante, conserver un prestige, celui d'exclure les aveuglantes enseignes au neon en laissant au soleil, le soin d'epandre l'or fin de sa lumiere. Carmel dont la Mission San Carlos Borromeo del Rio, abrita le Franciscain Junipero Serra, Pere de toutes les Missions. Carmel, lieu de depart d'une sainte croisade dans la pacification des coeurs. Carmel ornant d'un fleuron la fin d'un periple en Riviera Californienne.

Combien il est agreable au terme d'une inoubliable randonnee de recueillir et faire revivre dans la serenite de l'ame, les traits caracteristiques touchant notre sensibilite. Alliant le decor somptueux a l'accueil cordial, genercheminconduisant vers l'amitie.

Il est dans la Nature, comme dans les sentiments humains, des paysages lumineux engendrant un etat d'ame predisposant au rapprochement des etres. Chere Riviera Californienne c'est a toi que je dois eaux et sympathique du Club des Causeries Francaises, Carmel en m'envoutant sous ton charme effectivement Meridional, tu m'as donne l'occasion d'eprouver vers mes semblables, cette attirance sentimentale, premier pas dans le ces deux jours de bonheur; les ans pourront s'egrener, l'oubli tenter l aventure; mais sois sans crainte j'ai sauve pour toi seul un grand coin dans mon coeur.

Johnson-Wahl Wedding

Carmel Mission was the scene of the wedding last Saturday morning of Joan Johnson and Robert Wahl, both of Carmel.

The bride, a teacher for the past year at the Junipero Serra School, is the daughter of Capt. F. B. Johnson (USN-Ret.) and Mrs. Johnson of Carmel Meadows, and graduate of the San Francisco College for Women.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Miss Johnson wore a waltz-length gown of chantilly lace and tulle, its bouffant skirt decorated with lace inserts; she carried a cascade of crimson and white roses.

Her maid of honor was Robin Robison, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Shelburne Robison of Carmel, who wore a cocktail-length frock in cranberry red. Her bouquet was pink roses and bouvardia, and pink carnations formed her headband. Alex Robison, Robin's younger sister, was flower girl, and a veritable symphony in pink. Her crisp net-over-taffeta frock had a cranberry-colored cummerbund, and she carried a basket of stock and carnations in varying shades of pink.

The groom, who was graduated from the University of Oregon, is the son of General George D. Wahl (USA-Ret.) and Mrs. Wahl of Carmel. His best man at the wedding was former Carmelite Dick Costigan, now living in San Francisco. Ushers were Sam Robison of Carmel, Kevin Walsh of San Francisco, and the bride's brother, Francis Johnson.

Highlands Inn was the scene of the wedding breakfast which followed the Mission ceremony. The new Mr. and Mrs. Wahl plan to make their home in San Francisco, where he is in business.

The Childers planned to board the Lurline on November 10, and will be back in their Seaside home around the middle of next month.

Demo. Carnival In Highlands

The home of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams in Carmel Highlands was transformed into a carnival scene Sunday afternoon and evening for one of the liveliest parties of the pre-election season.

Nominally a Democratic affair honoring candidates Fred Farr of Carmel and Tim O'Reilly of San Luis Obispo (the latter sporting a kelly green double-bow tie), the party was augmented by a strong undercurrent of nonpartisan dogs, pups, cats, kits and children of assorted sizes who eddied around the feet of the scores of guests.

Party coffers were enriched by proceeds from a number of carnival booths and concessions set up around the Williams grounds, while party appetites were satisfied by heaping platters of hot pizza and assorted hors d'oeuvres prepared by a hard-working kitchen crew. For the small fry, there were two merry-go-round horses (disguised as donkeys for the occasion) for make-believe gallops, and folk dance music for those who could find the time or space for a polka. A number of ball games, from bocce- to base-, were also played on the field throughout the afternoon and evening, and the party, originally scheduled to break up around six, was carried on by its own momentum well into the late evening hours.

A more serious affair was the gathering Monday night at the fairgrounds, when Peninsula Democrats rallied in force to hear an address by gubernatorial candidate Richard Graves, speaking at the traditional Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. Over 500 were present for the occasion, including Congressional candidates Farr and O'Reilly.

Audubon Field Trip Sunday

The Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will meet ranger-naturalist Ken Legg Sunday at Natural Bridges State Park, on Highway 1 west of Santa Cruz, for a trip along the Santa Cruz beaches, starting at 9:00 o'clock.

Mr. Legg, now with the State Park Service in the Santa Cruz area, formerly served as a ranger at Point Lobos; his weekly column in the Pine Cone will be remembered by local nature-lovers.

Diane Lewis-Gail Fraties To Wed

Two of Carmel's oldest families will be united next month with the marriage of Diane Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lew E. Lewis, and Gail Fraties, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fraties, former Carmelites now living in San Francisco.

The young couple will be wed at a 3:00 o'clock ceremony in St. John's Chapel, Del Monte, on November 27. The reception to follow will take place at La Playa Hotel.

Diane's parents were true pioneers in Carmel, having been here since 1902. Diane herself was born and raised here, went through local schools and graduated from Carmel High and Monterey Peninsula College. She now works for the Monterey County Bank in Carmel. She is the sister of June and Doris Lewis, likewise native Carmelites.

Gail Fraties, whose father was formerly Carmel's chief of police, also attended local schools and graduated from Carmel High and M.P.C.; following two years in the Army, he attended Stanford University and graduated from the Foreign Trade School at Thunderbird Field in Phoenix, Arizona. He is now employed by the General Paint Company in San Francisco, where he and Diana will make their home for the next two years. After that, Gail hopes to be transferred to a post in South America.

D.A.R. School Program

A series of colored slides of one of the schools owned and maintained by the Daughters of the American Revolution were shown by Mrs. Carl Menneken, D.A.R. program chairman, at the organization's October meeting last week.

The slides depicted the Kate Duncan Smith D.A.R. School, located on Gunter Mountain in Marshall County, Alabama, which was established by the Alabama D.A.R. From a small four-room school with under 100 students and two teachers, the school has grown until today it represents an investment of over one million dollars by the D.A.R. Its campus embraces 225 acres, including the school farm and 19 buildings; there are more than 500 students, and a staff of 35. The D.A.R. schools are free to youth in areas where no other educational facilities are available.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Marcia DeVoe, Mrs. Roy W. Frisbee, Mrs. J. F. McKay and Mrs. George B. Ritchie. Others present were Mrs. Barry H. Jones, Mrs. Lloyd Kindell, Mrs. Frank La Cauza, Mrs. George de Lorimer, Mrs. C. H. Maxson, Mrs. Carl Menneken, Mrs. Samuel B. Moore, Mrs. J. K. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The fact that purification of thought and action removes the obstacles to individual growth, progress, and salvation, will be emphasized at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson - Sermon entitled "Probation After Death" is the Golden Text from James (1:12): "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him."

Among the pasages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be the following: (492:7-12):

"Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals, will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character. Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light."

From the Bible the following selections will be read (Philippians 3:13, 14):

"Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prise of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Smitty's Not-So-Silent Partner

Dropped into Smitty's gas station last week and met his new partner who turned out to be a real talker.

"What'll it be?" asked Smitty. Before I had a chance to answer I heard a strange voice "Fill her up! Fill her up!" And there was Smitty's partner — one of those parakeets perched next to the gas pump.

"Took me a month," Smitty said, "but I finally taught him to say those magic words. It's sure paid off — he's had a good influence on my customers."

From where I sit, Smitty's bird may be good for business — and may get him a few laughs. But when people act like parakeets, they're not so funny. For instance, those who keep insisting over and over again that their neighbors shouldn't have a glass of temperate beer with their supper now and then. They're simply repeating their own ideas, without any regard for the rights of others.
